ICC Bans 'Jim Crow' On Interstate Travel

Has No Effect On Intrastate Trains, Buses

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission ruled Friday that racial segregation in train and bus travel between the states is unlawful.

In two historic decisions, it ordered an end to the separation of white persons and Negroes on interstate trains and buses and in public waiting rooms serving the transportation lines.

The ICC has been grappling with the problem for 68 years. Friday's decisions follow a course already established by the Supreme Court, although the court has never issued a flat ban on all segregation in interstate travel.

Until now the ICC has sanctioned the principle of separate but equal accommodations for the races in administering the Interstate Commerce Act. But it said in Friday's rulings:

"The disadvantages to a traveler who is assigned accommodations or facilities so designated as to imply his inherent inferiority solely because of his race must be regarded under present conditions as unreasonable.

"Also, he is entitled to be free of annoyances, some petty and some substantial, which almost inevitably accompany segregation even though the rail carriers, as most of the defendants have done here, sincerely try to provide both races with equally convenient and comfortable cars and waiting rooms."

The ruling applied to all facilities provided by the carriers for interstate travelers. This would include rest rooms, if they were part of such service.

The commission set Jan. 10 as the effective date.

The ICC ruling has no effect on intrastate travel—that is, within one state—and 13 states have laws requiring segregation. These are Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Texas, South Carolina, Virginia and Kentucky.

In these states the railroads would still have to supply separate waiting rooms and separate passenger accommodations for whites and Negroes, if they comply with state law.

Thus, the situation would arise of a railroad being forbidden by the ICC to separate Negroes and whites traveling across state lines, and having to separate those traveling from one point to another within the state.

A 1946 Supreme Court decision ruled against a Virginia law requiring segregation within the state of bus passengers in interstate travel, holding that this was an undue burden on interstate commerce. That decision, limited to a bus case, did not mention railroad passengers but it generally was interpreted as such.

Oswego 4-H'er Wins Scholarship

CHICAGO (AP)—Eldon Rebhorn of Oswego, Ill., today won a $300 scholarship for his leadership in 4-H Club work.

Rebhorn, now 20 and a student at Northern Illinois State College, has been in 4-H work for a dozen years.

He was the prime mover in the OKB 4-H Club, a town-country organization formed in 1954 after the Rebhorns moved to Oswego from a farm.

Pictures Of Woman, Missing Shoe Used In Seeking Killer

CHICAGO (AP)—Police began distributing 5,000 circulars Friday in hopes of turning up a lead in the strangulation of a divorced mother of six.

The circulars carry pictures of the victim, Mrs. Edith Bess Jamieson, 48, and the mate of her missing shoe.

They were being circulated among cab drivers, Chicago Transit Authority bus drivers and shops along the route that Mrs. Jamieson usually took on her way home from her night job in a loop bank.

Mrs. Jamieson's garrotted body, bound with rope and wire, was found early Wednesday in a muddy alley several blocks from her home, less than three hours after she quit work. Investigators said she was neither robbed nor raped.

An inquest into her death was continued to Dec. 16 to give police more time to investigate.

Meanwhile, investigators began questioning cowboys and livestock handlers at the Chicago Union Stockyards, a mile or so from where Mrs. Jamieson's body was dumped against a fence. Detectives said the manner in which the body was bound was similar to the method used by cowboys to hogtie cattle.

Robert S. Dean 37, a cab driver, picked up for questioning about the case, was released Friday after taking a lie detector test which police said cleared him of any knowledge of the slaying.

President Mixes Relaxation With Official Business

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower entered his third month of convalescence Friday and mixed together large portions of relaxation with a bit of official business.

The main business transacted in the paneled study of his big white brick home on the edge of the Gettysburg battlefield was the polite but swift acceptance of the resignation of Chairman Hugh W. Cross of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

But all in all, this and the whole weekend was a time of let-up for the chief executive to enjoy his three grandchildren and occasional social visitors.

The President's pace picks up next week when he buckles down to an increasingly heavier schedule of political and governmental affairs.

The political eyes of the nation were turned Monday on a conference Eisenhower is having with Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall.

There is no expectation here that any announcement will be forthcoming from the President's decision for or against seeking reelection next year. There isn't even any certainty his intentions will be discussed.

Chances Of Rescue Bleak For 30 On Grounded Vessel

HALIFAX, N. S. (AP)—Air and sea-borne efforts to rescue 30 crewmen marooned in a storm-lashed freighter wrecked on the northern Cape Breton failed Friday. Friday night a rescue convoy headed by a snow plow floundered over mountainous roads toward the scene with breeches buoy equipment.

There was little or no prospect that the men might be saved before morning—if then—from the 2,848-ton Liberian freighter Kismet II. Lines had been put aboard earlier by a helicopter that failed in its effort to get close enough to pick men off the decks.

Trucks in the convoy toiling over the snow-bound roads carried the breeches buoy gear to hitch to the lines.

The rescue team hoped to lift the men up 1,000 feet of cliffs and sloping shore of Cape St. Lawrence. The Kismet piled up early Friday morning under the towering cliffs and was reported on the verge of foundering.

The Kismet, with her hull ripped by jagged rocks, pounded continually in boiling surf whipped up by winds of near gale force.

Rescue gear flown from Halifax had to be taken from Sydney Airport by highway. Snow prevented a planned transfer by helicopter.

The rescue attempt was expected to be delayed until daylight.

An expert said even the outlook for rescue by the old-fashioned breeches buoy method seemed bleak.

The helicopter was stopped dead in the air as it tried to reach the ship to pick the men off the decks.

It's all right for life to begin at 40, but the rheumatism and arthritis have to, also?

U.N. Assembly, France End Row Over Algeria

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The U. N. Assembly and France Friday dramatically ended their row over Algeria. The Assembly unanimously dropped Algeria from its 1955 agenda and France called off its boycott.

The break in the deadlock means France will resume the seat in the Assembly from which Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay angrily stalked eight weeks ago Friday. Pinay walked out when the Assembly voted 28-27 to debate Algeria's troubles with France. Pinay claimed Algeria is a domestic issue outside the province of the U. N.

Despite the French decision, four of the 60-nation committees of the Assembly met Friday afternoon without a French delegate. Apparently Paris needs some time to get its delegation back to full strength.

Some diplomats explained privately the compromise was reached so France can take part in the vote for the admission of 18 countries to the U. N.

The membership question is a burning issue in the Assembly and delegates of various shades of opinion said the absence of France from the Assembly might endanger plans to take in the 18 new members.

Krishna Menon, India's top delegate and foreign affairs adviser to Prime Minister Nehru, was hailed by several speakers as a "genius" for thinking up the formula approved today. He has worked on the problem for weeks.

Thursday she turned over to the Anti-Cruelty society 15 ducks she had rescued from the Lake Michigan beach in front of her home. The ducks, gummy with petroleum from an oil slick which had trapped them, were scrubbed in the Streichenbach bathtub.

Friday the Streichenbachs received six more ducks, brought to their door by neighbors who had found them along the shore.

"I guess people thought my home had become a wildlife refuge," Mrs. Streichenbach said.

Mr. Streichenbach, controller for a plywood concern, didn't say what he thought. His wife said that Streichenbach refused to eat his Thanksgiving turkey dinner Thursday.

Many North Siders have rescued oil-soaked ducks; James Miller, 14, who jumped fully clothed off the Farwell avenue pier to do his good deed. Miller not only got wet; the duck bit his thumb.

There still were many forlorn ducks, half capsize in the offshore water.

Charles Waigand, dispatcher for the Animal Welfare League, said he and two league workers plan to conduct a duck roundup along the lake shore before dawn Saturday. He said he believes they'll be easier to approach and rescue at night.

The Anti-Cruelty Society Friday released seven ducks its staff had cleaned and restored to flying condition. Director Julius Shaffer said the society had eight ducks, two loons and a mudhen awaiting processing.

DEER HUNTING TRIP ENDS IN TRAGEDY

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—A holiday deer hunting trip turned into tragedy for Mrs. Hazel Dell Moser, 41, who was shot fatally by her husband.

Sheriff Ben Lee of Leon County said Thursday the Mosers and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald R. Standifer, all of Dallas, were hunting 12 miles from Buffalo, Tex.

The two women were crouched under brush to escape rain. The men were coming down from a ridge when Moser saw his wife's gloved hands moving.

"There's a fox," Moser said, and fired. Standifer told the sheriff.

Mrs. Moser was struck in the chest and Mrs. Standifer received buckshot in the arm.

FACE TELLS OF ORDEAL — Years of sorrow seem to have been etched into the face of Mrs. William Woodward, Jr., in the scant 14 months between the time these two photographs were taken. At left, every bit a member of society's upper echelon, Mrs. Woodward appears in London in September 1954. At right, hospitalized since 10:30 a.m. after she shot and killed her husband in the mistaken belief that he was a prowler, the 39-year-old former actress and model appears drawn and haggard as she leaves Doctor's Hospital for Nassau County Police Headquarters. . . and more questions on what happened on that fatal night.

Find Ann Woodward Legally Blameless In Killing Of Husband

MINEOLA, N. Y. (AP)—Mrs. Ann Woodward was found legally blameless Friday in the shotgun killing of her millionaire-sportsman husband.

A Nassau County grand jury, deliberating 46 minutes, held that there was no crime involved in the Oct. 30 slaying of 35-year-old William Woodward Jr., owner of the racehorse Nashua.

Mrs. Woodward spent more than three hours in the grand jury chambers. However, only part of that time was spent in the witness chair, where she repeated her account of the shooting as a tragic accident. By its decision, the grand jury accepted her account of the death.

The blonde, 39-year-old former show girl, was virtually carried from the building after the jury finished its chore. She was sobbing convulsively and had to be supported.

Mrs. Woodward declined to answer reporters' questions as she was assisted from the courthouse. Her condition at the climax of the sensational case appeared even worse than it had been when she entered the grand jury chambers earlier. Then her head was bowed and she was sobbing.

She was dressed entirely in black, including a black hat and a veil. She wore no makeup and the only color about her except for her blonde tresses was a white handkerchief clutched to her face.

On four different occasions, including her grand jury appearance, the Kansas-born Mrs. Woodward told essentially the same story. She said she was in dreadful fear of a prowler who was active in the vicinity of the Woodwards' Oyster Bay estate, the weekend of the killing. Both she and her husband armed themselves with shotguns when they returned from a party early Oct. 30 in honor of the Duchess of Windsor.

Thus armed, they retired to separate first floor bedrooms, on opposite sides of a 10-foot-wide hallway.

Mrs. Woodward said she was awakened by the barking of a family poodle, that with a reflex action she grabbed the gun as she leaped from her bed and fired blindly into the hallway in the direction of a noise she heard. Her husband, nude and unarmed in his own bedroom doorway, was hit in the head by one of her shotgun charges.

Jane Turner, 13, Wins Second Championship At Stock Show

CHICAGO (AP)—Thirteen-year-old Jane Turner of Champaign, Ill., brought her Aberdeen Angus calf, Elmer, into the judging ring Dec. 3. More than 11,000 head of Friday and walked out with her second consecutive championship at the International Live Stock Exposition.

Elmer, 18 months old and 1,054 pounds, got the championship ribbon in the fat carcass on hoof, beef animal, competition.

The girl had a winning entry last year. She said she picked this year's winner from her father's registered herd of 25 Angus and took care of the animal until it was in show shape.

The father, Keith Turner, has a 320-acre farm, a half mile north of Champaign, in central Illinois. The reserve championship went to Iowa State College, at Ames, Iowa.

Purdue University, West Lafayette, Ind., showed the champion carcass wether on hoof.

Cash prizes totaling $100,000 are old Jane Turner of Champaign, up for grabs in the big annual farm show that will run through Dec. 3. More than 11,000 head of the best cattle, sheep and hogs have been entered from 38 states and several Canadian provinces.

The total valuation of the entries is estimated by show sponsors at five million dollars.

The grand champion steer, top prize of the competition, will be judged Tuesday. Grand championships also will be named in barrow and wether lamb classes.

Saturday's activities are confined to judging of animals entered by farm boys and girls in the junior feeding contest. The champion steer of the junior contest is eligible to compete in the open classes starting Monday.

The number of entries was reduced to show proportions Friday in culling processes that annually precede the stock competition.

Claims Charges Baseless

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower Friday accepted the resignation of Hugh W. Cross, Interstate Commerce Commission chairman whose actions had come under scrutiny of Senate investigators.

Cross' resignation as chairman and commission member was made effective immediately. It was submitted by Cross under date of last Wednesday.

Cross is a 59-year-old Illinois Republican, a two-term lieutenant governor, who was appointed by President Truman to the ICC March 8, 1949 to fill out an unexpired term and was reappointed to a seven-year term in 1950.

He became chairman of the ICC last July under the system by which ICC members rotate in the chairmanship.

Cross said in his letter of resignation that the charges against him were baseless, but:

"I am realistic enough to know that, unfounded as they are, the mere pendency of such charges impairs my further service on the commission and its proper functioning in the public interest."

The Senate Investigations subcommittee headed by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) has been looking into the award of a contract by a group of railroads to Railroad Transfer Service, Inc., of Chicago.

The contract was to carry railroad passengers in buses between Chicago railroad stations and had been held for many years by the A. C. Parmelee Co. of Chicago. Parmelee protested strongly when it lost the contract, effective last Oct. 1.

Cross was questioned behind closed doors early this month. There has been no formal disclosure of what went on. However, a Republican source made available to a reporter a copy of a telegram he said subcommittee counsel sent GOP absentees from a committee meeting. The telegram said Cross "admitted indiscretion in contacting two railroad presidents but denied soliciting favorable consideration" of the successful bid for the contract.

The investigation also dealt with the question whether an offer of a job had been made to Cross.

The telegram quoted John L. Keeshin, president of Railroad Transfer Service, as having testified that the "only offer to employ Cross was made some time ago and was not in connection with contract under discussion."

Cross likewise has denied to reporters that there was any offer of a job with Keeshin in connection with the contract.

The ICC, while it has broad powers over railroads and other forms of transportation in interstate commerce, had no jurisdiction over the Chicago bus contract, since that was an intrastate matter.

At Little Rock, Ark., Sen. McClellan said the Senate investigation of Cross probably would be dropped. "On the basis of the information the committee started out with, I don't think it's necessary now to proceed any further," he said.

SANE WORDS ON THE BOOM

America's boom goes on, and so does the talk from both the experts and the amateurs as to where it is leading us.

One expert recently heard from who offered the country some eminently sound counsel was Henry C. Alexander, chairman of the board of J. P. Morgan and Co., famed banking house.

Alexander spoke hopefully but hard-headedly about the bright economic future in store for Americans. IF they follow a careful course and avoid major mistakes.

Said Alexander in a New York speech: "The best way to preserve confidence is to prevent it from turning into overconfidence. Confidence is based on the belief we can make things go right; overconfidence deludes itself into believing that nothing can possibly go wrong."

He feels we have real ground for confidence because the country both produces and consumes dynamically. The economy is constantly fueled by demand growing out of "our people's insatiable appetite for better living and technology's inexhaustible capacity to provide it."

But he thinks it comes dangerously close to overconfidence to dwell so heavily as some do on our increase in population as an almost automatic stabilizer in the years ahead. It takes money and machines as well as men to produce growth.

Nor must we confuse inflation with growth, in Alexander's view. It is risky to try to force growth along by satisfying some special group or applying a dose of inflation here and there.

"Such doses, for instance, as increased government spending, or tax cuts without a balanced budget, or wage increases without increased productivity, or prolonged and expanded government subsidies."

On the other hand, Alexander would not administer the "shock treatment" to the credit system in any effort to check inflation.

"You may make credit dear, but never make it unavailable," he said. "There is a difference between tight money and no money. And for the moment money is dear enough and tight enough."

The banker thinks concern rather than alarm is the proper attitude right now toward the rising level of private debt. He believes it is bound to go still higher as the economy expands further.

"We must watch carefully the rate at which debt grows, especially from here on. That rate must not outrun increases in productivity and income. Increased borrowing must be matched by increased ability to repay. Otherwise we aren't expanding the economy, we're merely puffing it up."

One can do no better than to pass these words on. They represent fundamental good sense. They reflect a spirit of calm moderation and ought to be read as an antidote either in overoptimism or gloom and panic. Let's hope the men in Washington can view the problem as sanely.

Turkey Soup Can Be Made Best Portion of the Bird

BY GAYNOR MADDOX

NEA Food and Markets Editor

Leftover turkey can be the beginning of much fine eating. The turkey carcass, of course, means a large pot of delicious rich soup.

Let's turn to "Magie With Leftovers" by Louise Rousseau Bruner, a new collection of 300 recipes using leftovers. It's a practical and enticing collection. Would make a good Christmas gift. This turkey soup recipe is one example.

Turkey Soup

(Serves up to 10-12)

Turkey carcass, 1 bay leaf, 1/2 teaspoon marjoram, 1/2 teaspoon thyme, 1/2 teaspoon basil, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 medium onion chopped fine, 1/2 cup minced celery, salt and pepper, 1/4 cup raw rice, 1/2 pound mushrooms sliced and sauteed, 3 tablespoons Madeira or sherry, if desired, or 1 tablespoon lemon juice.

Here is the traditional last appearance of the turkey, and a delicious one it can be. To avoid keeping the turkey carcass on hand for several days, remove all usable meat from it as soon as possible and make the basic broth for turkey soup immediately.

Break up the carcass, cracking large bones with a cleaver or hammer. Put in a large soup pot with bay leaf and other herbs, and enough water to cover completely, and simmer slowly, covered, for 3 to 4 hours. Strain through a fine sieve so as to remove little slivers of bone, and sort out pieces of turkey and put back in the broth. (At this stage broth can be stored to make soup another day.)

Melt butter in kettle large enough to hold the broth you have and blend in flour. Cook for a moment and then stir in stock gradually. Bring to boil and add onion, celery, rice, and seasonings to taste. Simmer until rice is soft—25 to 30 minutes—and add mushrooms. Just before serving add Madeira or sherry or lemon juice.

SUNDAY'S DINNER: Special turkey soup, cold sliced turkey and ham, scalloped potatoes, canned peas, enriched bread, butter or margarine, apple and cabbage slaw, pumpkin pie, assorted cheese, crackers, coffee, tea, milk.

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Palestine's tangled story involves not only the Jews and Arabs but the United States and Russia. It may, if war breaks out, set off the spark that ignites the world. This is the background.

Palestine, about New Jersey's size, has 1,600,000 people, half of whom entered there in the past 10 years. Of the total, 1 1/2 million are Jews, 70 per cent of the rest are Moslems.

From the time the Romans crushed them in 70 A. D. the Jews, until recently, did not have a majority in Palestine. Nevertheless, through the centuries they looked upon it as their homeland.

The Turks, when they jumped into World War I on Germany's side, held not only Palestine but the surrounding Arab areas. To win the Arabs from the Turks, the French and British promised them that if the Allies won they would break up the Turkish Empire into Arab states.

Britain also—in the Balfour Declaration of 1917—said it would look with favor on the creation of a home for Jews in Palestine. The Jews at that time were only one tenth of the population in Palestine.

The Allies won and began setting up the Arab states, under French and British controls. The League of Nations also gave Britain a mandate—which meant control but not ownership—of Palestine.

Came World War II and the massacre of Jews in Germany. It stung the world's conscience—the Western world's, that is. The Jews, worldwide, meanwhile, had been pushing for a nation of their own in Palestine. They could always point to that British Balfour Declaration of 1917. The British had never made good.

At war's end the British said they would quit Palestine. Jews poured in. Arabs feared Jewish immigration would swamp them. Besides, they objected to creation of a new Jewish state. But in 1947 the United Nations approved this idea: partition Palestine, letting part of it be a Jewish state, part an Arab state.

On May 14, 1948, the Jews proclaimed the independence of Israel. The next day Egypt, followed by other Arab countries, attacked Israel. The Jews, outnumbered, fought the Arabs and, by the time an armistice was agreed on, held not only what the U. N. had intended to be Jewish Palestine but most of what had started out to be Arab Palestine.

This armistice, obtained by the U. N., was supposed to be only temporary. The U. N. thought perhaps peace could be agreed on. It hasn't been agreed on yet. Scarcely a week has passed since 1949 that some bloody clash has not occurred along the armistice line between Egypt and her four Arab neighbors: Lebanon, Syria, Jordan and Egypt.

That armistice line—besides the Arabs' hatred of the Jews and their refusal to recognize Israel as a state—was one of the sorest points. While that line left Israel in possession of most of what had been Arab Palestine, Jordan held a piece bordering on Jerusalem, and Egypt had a part called the Gaza Strip. The U. N. Armistice also called for demilitarized zones.

Early this month fighting broke out between the Egyptians and Israelis in one of those zones—called El Ajlaj—on the frontier between Egypt and Israel.

By itself this would have been had enough. But the fighting began shortly after Egypt reportedly had ordered 80 million dollars worth of arms from Communist Czechoslovakia. It meant Russia was beginning to make solid contact with the Arabs.

The West, but particularly the United States, while helping Israel get on its feet wanted not only to keep the friendship of the Arabs but to keep them away from Russian influence.

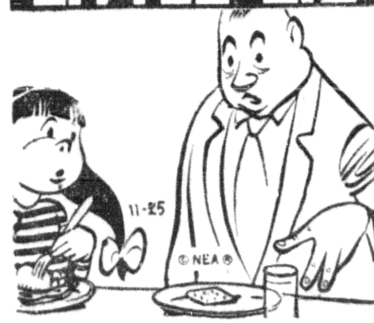

Then British Prime Minister Eden made a proposal—the United States hasn't gone along with it—which infuriated the Jews. He suggested Jews and Arabs settle their differences by making "compromises." The Jews said what he really meant was that they should give back to the Arabs that part of Arab Palestine which they had conquered in the fighting of 1948-49. They said no.

They appealed to the United States for arms. This country said it would consider their request. At once Egypt warned the United States that if it gave the Jews arms it would lose the friendship of the Arab world of which Egypt is leader.

The United States wants to keep the Arabs friendly but, because of the large Jewish population in this country, has to think twice about refusing Israel arms.

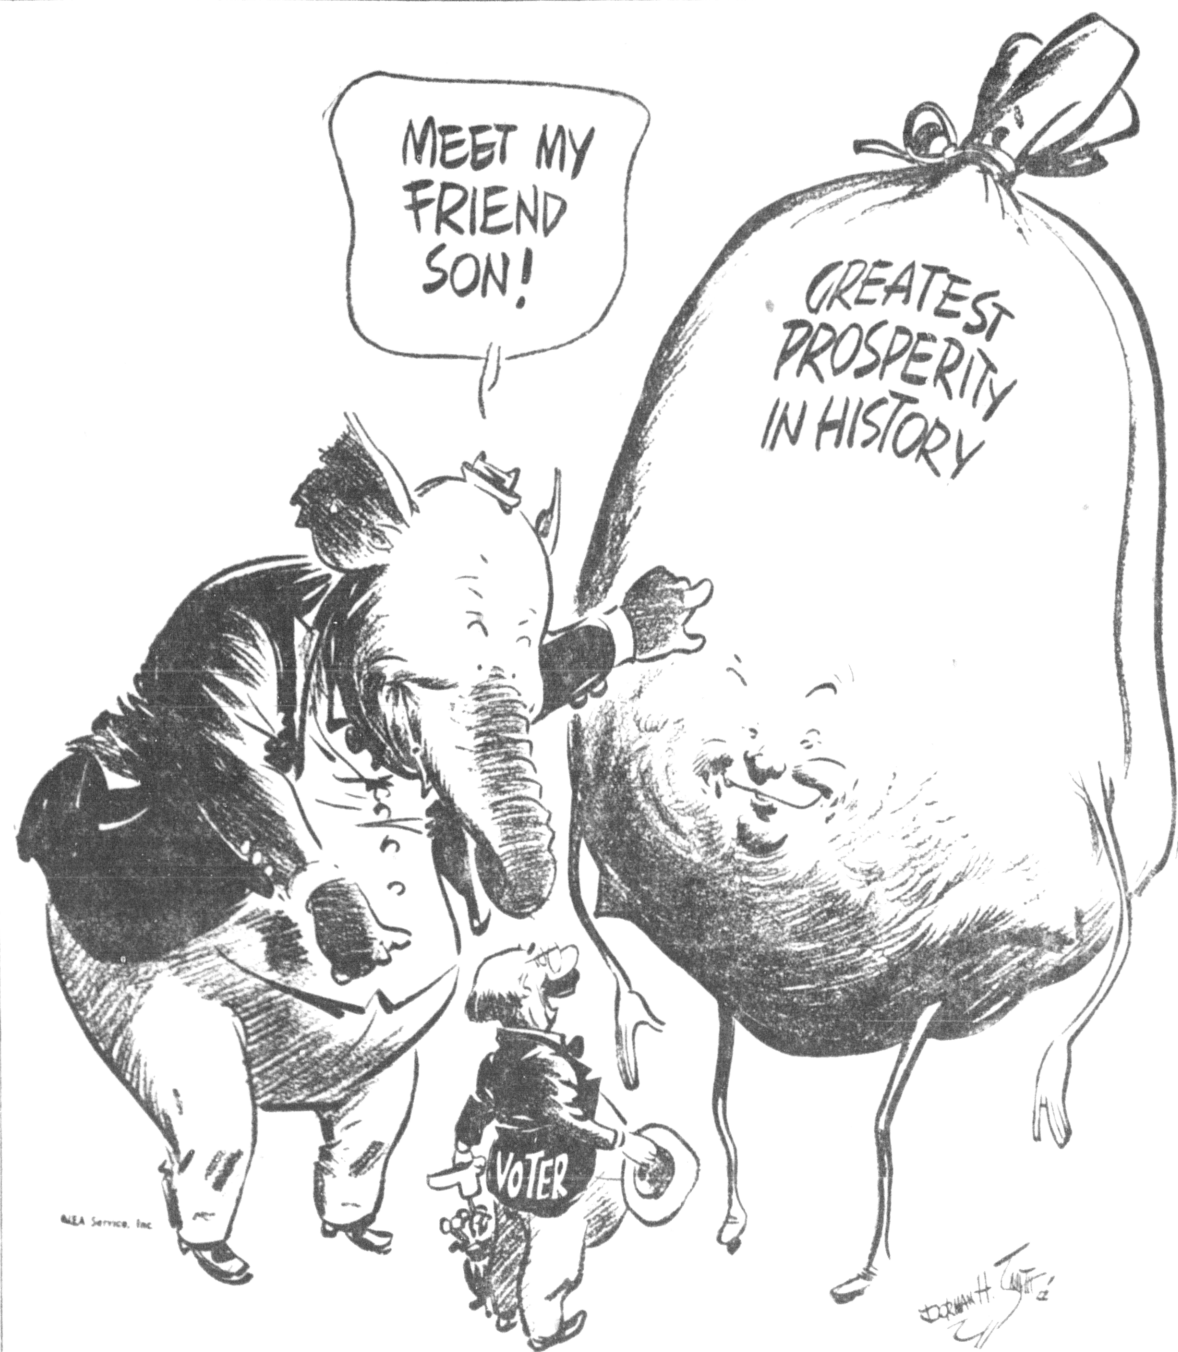

If full-scale war breaks out in Palestine, it could in the end involve this country and Russia.

WHITE PATCHES INSIDE MOUTH ARE SIGNAL TO GET DOCTOR'S ASSISTANCE

Several correspondents have inquired regarding white patches on the tongue and inside of the mouth which is a condition known as leukoplakia. In replying to these, without quoting any one of the questions specifically, I should like to emphasize that this is a condition which should not be neglected since these patches can become cancerous.

Not all of them do develop into cancer, of course, but they should be kept under observation and an effort should be made to cure them. A person with leukoplakia of the mouth should avoid smoking or chewing tobacco altogether and permanently.

Such a person should avoid alcoholic beverages, highly seasoned foods, and placing anything in the mouth which is irritating.

In some cases local treatment, addition of vitamin A to the diet, or other measures may also be indicated. Under certain circumstances, surgery or perhaps the use of radium is advisable, but, of course, this or any other measure should be used only under expert professional advice.

The important thing about leukoplakia is, I think, that this is not a simple condition which will cure itself.

Q—I am almost 16 years old and as yet, my breasts have barely begun to develop. Is there anything that could be done about this?

A—in all probability it would be best to do nothing. The bust develops earlier in some girls than in others and to larger size in some than in others. Generally speaking, it is wise not to interfere with nature's plans, and since you are not yet 16 the chances are you can count on further development as time goes on.

Q—Please tell me if either liquor or tobacco could poison a man and keep on increasing the harm for three years after both habits are completely stopped.—H.N.

A—I suppose it is possible that permanent harm could have been caused by too much alcoholic beverages or possibly even tobacco over a long period of time. Ordinarily, however, it would be hard to see that harmful effects would be seen after the habits had been discontinued and not get worse.

Q—Will vinegar kill tuberculosis germs?—Mrs. E. M.

A—Assuming that you mean vinegar taken by mouth and its effect on tuberculosis germs in the body tissues, the answer is "No." I suppose that a culture of tubercle bacilli placed in a strong solution of vinegar for a long enough time would eventually die, but I am reasonably certain this is not what you mean.

Q—Could cancer or polio come from what is put in bread to keep it fresh longer?—Reader.

A—The finger of suspicion has not been pointed at such substances either as a possible cause of cancer or of polio.

Q—Do you think cabbage juice has any value for stomach ulcers?—Mrs. S.

A—I do not think so—or at least that it is in any sense a substitute for more conventional methods of treating peptic ulcer.

Christmas Sneaks Up on Us As Silently as a Brass Band

"Don't Let Christmas Sneak Up on You" says a blurb on the front of a November magazine.

Are you kidding? When I went shopping for "Trick or Treat" tidbits to pay off the neighborhood small fry the stores already were bright with Christmas decorations.

And long before the Thanksgiving turkey is ordered the department stores will be filled with reindeer, pink Christmas trees and shiny angels—and also with merchandise boxes for Christmas giving.

It won't be long now, either, until the count of so many shopping days until Christmas begins.

And then all the talk about mailing packages early, so conscientiously observed during the last few years that the real slack season at the post office now comes a few days before Christmas.

And what about the Christmas parties that used to be given at the Christmas season? Now they start early in December.

Salesmen have already been knocking at front doors, with catalogs of Christmas cards under their arms, and uttering solemn warnings that it's not a minute too early to select your cards and put in your order.

And almost every mail brings a gift catalog with a hurry-up message from some mail order house.

The November magazines are thick with Christmas advertising—and they hit the newsstands in October.

The only persons Christmas could sneak up on in this day and age would be a hermit living in a cave miles from civilization.

Hunt Method For Shoveling Out U.S. Farm Surplus

BY PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington—(NEA)—A drive to sweep the U. S. government's storage warehouses clean of its seven-billion-dollar holdings in surplus farm products is heading for the next Congress.

The idea behind this proposal is that these surpluses now overhang the market and depress current farm prices. What's considered even worse, the huge surpluses make high price support levels unpopular.

If the surpluses could be liquidated, it is argued that scarcities would be created and prices would go up. Then, at high support levels, farmers could begin unloading overproduction and start building up another surplus. That's the vicious circle surrounding this surplus liquidation proposal.

The Senate Agriculture Committee under Chairman Allen J. Ellender (D-La.) now touring the country, has actually heard proposals that the surpluses be dumped in the ocean. This shocking suggestion came from former Utah state Sen. Hyrum Gibbons and from Idaho cattleman Ivan Pierce.

No Political Leader has yet dared so far. What they fear is another reaction like former Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace got from his depression relief plan for killing off the surplus pigs to raise hog prices.

The actual destruction of food and fiber when there are millions of underfed and poorly clothed people in the world would cause great revulsion. It would let Communist propagandists point out how the selfish capitalists destroyed food and let people starve, just to keep prices high.

What has to be found, as both Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson and his predecessor, Sen. Clinton Anderson (D-NF) points out, is some way to market these surpluses.

They can't be given away indiscriminately without breaking farm markets over the world. Even the sale at cut prices can run foreign farmers.

The Agricultural Trade Development Act of 1953, intended to deal with this problem, hasn't been adequate. It provides for sale of surpluses for foreign currencies, barter, giveaway for disaster relief, school lunch programs and the like.

About 1.5 billion dollars of these surpluses have been disposed of in the last two years. But 7.4 billion dollars worth of surpluses remain—3.8 billion dollars owned outright and 3.6 billion dollars held by Commodity Credit Corporation as security against crop loan advances to farmers.

The surplus consists of 2.7 billion dollars worth of wheat, 1.6 billion dollars worth of cotton and its products, 1.4 billion dollars corn, 500 million dollars soybeans, 384 million dollars rice and small feed grains, 326 million dollars dairy products, 99 million dollars wool and 250 million dollars other products like honey and tung oil.

How much the U. S. taxpayers would stand to lose if these were dumped in uncertain. If the United States had to pay transportation charges for moving the surpluses to the bottom of the ocean, the loss would be more than seven billion dollars.

So far, products which cost CCC 469 million dollars have been sold at world market prices for 364 million dollars. The loss, 105 million dollars or 22 per cent. If the U. S. seven-billion-dollar surpluses could be disposed of at that discount, the loss would be around 1.5 billion dollars.

From the politician's standpoint, this would be a cheap price to pay for farm vote support next election day.

The rationalization for getting rid of U. S. surpluses at cut prices is that this is what was done with surplus arms, ammunition and defense plants at the end of the war. "If it's all right to sell guns at 10 cents on the dollar, why isn't it also all right to do it with butter?" ask farm lobbyists.

This is said to be the price which the public must pay to get abundant production and to keep agriculture prosperous and happy.

The Mature Parent

'Hurt Baby Inside Us' Needs Reassuring Pat on the Head

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

At 8 p. m. our 13-year-old Betsy answers the telephone. It seems that her "gang" is bussing to another town to catch the new Marion Brando movie. Can she join it?

No, not tonight. Why? Because tomorrow is a school day. What if it is? If other people can go bussing about in pursuit of Brando movies on school nights, why can't she? Why must we always be different from other people's mothers? Why...

"That will do," says our daughter's father. "You heard what your mother said."

We thank God for the Institution of Marriage, relax—and go on hemming the skirt Betsy has asked us to lengthen.

The next morning we press it for her, and perform several other of those services we're continually rendering children without question.

They don't count. Nothing we have given to Betsy in the past 20 hours rates because we've withheld something from her. For later this afternoon as we pass her bedroom door, we hear her saying to one of her "gang":

"My mother's a show-off, that's all. She's got to throw her weight around the way she did last night—or she can't stand it. Honestly, when I think of the snippy way she said, 'No, you can't go' last night, I get mad all over again."

Our impulse is to do one of two things. We may want to go away and mourn like a wounded dove. We may want to jump up and down on the skirt we have pressed.

We're mad. We've been a good little girl—and got a slap instead of our deserved pat on the head.

It's this "good little girl" in us that makes us so susceptible to hurt by our youngsters.

She's used to pats on the head from way back. For years, she was encouraged to seek them out for very little moral achievement. If she put the baby's toys away, Mommy kissed and praised her. If she gave Daddy his paper, he beamed and beamed. Trained so to depend on other people's praise, this infant within us wants it from her own children. And if she doesn't get it, she'll sulk or throw a tantrum.

It's great relief to know about her. Then we don't let her time with her sulks and tantrums. Outside Betsy's door, we give the baby inside us what she's screaming for—the pat on the head.

In his new book, "The Sane Society," psychoanalyst Erik Erikson writes, "In the process of maturing, we become our own parents; and become also our own child."

Reality is always shocking and hurting the child-self within us. The wiser we are the readier we are with comfort for it when our sons and daughters fail to give us what Mommy and Daddy gave us.

Virginia W.S.C.S. Meets Nov. 15 In Methodist Church

VIRGINIA — The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the local Methodist Church met in the church Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 15. The president, Mrs. Elmer Webster, was in charge.

A song by the group opened the program, after which the secretary gave the 21 members present a report on the supper and bazaar, held in the church Nov. 8. It was voted to hold the study class Monday, Nov. 21, at 2 p.m. in the church.

Mrs. Seth McClintock gave the lesson, "Women And The Church Through The Centuries." Mrs. Floyd Brewer told of the "Famous Mothers of the New Testament." Mrs. Yapple accompanied on the piano Miss Lillie Gustafson, who sang a solo, after which the meeting was closed with a prayer.

Refreshments were served from a table decorated in keeping with Thanksgiving. A large bowl of fruit with tall candles on either side made the center decoration. An assortment of cookies, candy, and nuts was served. Mrs. Henry Jacobs presided at the coffee urn. Hostesses were Mrs. Warren Sudbrink, Mrs. Alma Tink, Miss Bertha Jokisch and Mrs. Henry Jacobs.

XXVII
STARRETT looked to Bruhn but could not read the hooded gray eyes. He shrugged and swiftly outlined the situation between himself and Crane, building up his need for the disputed range and, later, his desire for the whole HC spread. Tex listened, glancing now and then at Bruhn.

"So what do you want done?" he asked when Starrett finished. "Well, Crane is caught here in the town. He's the one you hit that first day," Starrett glanced at Tex. "If he was out of the way, I wouldn't have any problem. You gents are here, and you'll ride out before long."

"Pinned with a murder brand," Bruhn said. Starrett spread his hands. "Is that new? How about Tommy Rikes? How many of you already have a killing tagged against you somewhere?"

Pace smiled thinly. "I check and pass." "Well, this thing don't have to be murder. There's such a thing as starting a fight. You'd know how to do that."

"You could start your own fight," Pace said. "Not me... not and take over that range." Again Starrett spread his hands. "Let's not act like woolly lambs. A quarrel's easy to pick, any time and any place. Any one of you could do it. I don't care how it's done or who does it. I just pay $500."

Tex leaned back. "You don't rate this Crane very high, do you?" "It's the best I can do," Starrett said. Tex looked at Bruhn, uncertain now and obviously disappointed at the price Starrett had set. Five hundred wasn't much but, on the other hand, the job wasn't much, either. Darrow, Juarez, Pace, Denver, Egan, Vause or himself could do the job in a matter of five minutes. But there were other things to consider. He had no compunction about killing a man, and taking care of Crane would be about as easy as shooting the head off a daisy. But this would be just one more killing added to the score against them in the town. The village seemed subdued, but Bruhn knew what men goaded beyond reason might do. This proposed murder might be just the thing that would change the whole picture.

HE had thought for a moment that Darrow might use this offer as a means of forcing the issue he had evaded once before. But $500 had disappointed Tex. If it wasn't for the rift in his own gang, he probably would have taken the offer. He cleared his throat and Starrett eagerly watched him.

"I don't know. Like I said before, I'll have to think it over. We'll be here a spell," Bruhn said heavily. "But when the roads become passable..."

Bruhn cut him short. "Crane won't ride until we tell him he can." Pace pushed back his chair and arose. He moved with easy grace to the door and outside. Starrett sat for a few moments, chewing the bitter cud of his disappointment, then, with an angry jerk, he arose and strode outside. He started down the steps, giving Pace only a passing glance. The outlaw's calm voice checked him.

"Come here, Starrett. Maybe it's not all said yet." Starrett checked, one foot on the bottom step. "What do you mean?"

"You've got the cash?"

"Not with me. It's at the Star ranch house. I could ride with you to Star. You'd have it then." Pace looked down the street, digesting this. "Cash talks loud, Starrett. Beats a bellyful of words four ways from the jack. Too bad."

He smiled crookedly and calmly and walked down the steps, leaving Starrett to watch after him, frowning, puzzled, and yet with a new hope.

Pace crossed the street to the lumber yard office. He straightened his hat, raking the brim slightly, hitched at his gunbelt and pushed open the door. Phil and Paula were at the desk, Paula seated, Phil standing beside her studying some invoices.

"Morning," Pace gave a glance and smiled at Paula. She looked hastily down at the ledger. Phil slowly came to the counter. "Anything I can do for you?"

"No just dropped in to pass the time of day. Nothing like getting acquainted with your neighbors." "It's stopped snowing," Phil said carefully. "It will be a nice day and we're hardly neighbors. Besides, we're busy."

Pace slowly turned his head and look at him. "That wads it up between you and me, but there's still another neighbor in the room. What do you think of the day, ma'am? I'd say it's not quite so bright or pretty as you are."

SHE spoke quickly. "Thank you, sir. But we are very busy—" Phil stepped between him and the girl. "Mister, let's get things straight. You and your kind ride in and make us helpless. There's nothing we can do about that. But we want nothing to do with you. That goes for me and my daughter."

"Dad!" Paula jumped up. Pace slowly straightened and his nostrils pinched. A hot, fierce light came in his pale eyes and he stood poised on the ragged edge of violence. Pace's slender fingers curled slowly into a fist and then slowly straightened again.

"Too bad you're so busy, ma'am. I reckon there'll be another time before long." (To Be Continued)

Through the Centuries...

Through cold, snow-covered fields, underneath ice-encrusted trees, the river runs its course.

This brings to mind the Christian Church. It was founded upon the teachings of Jesus who lived His life and did His work unperturbed by the coldness of many of His fellowmen and of the ruling officials. He knew that His work would stand because it was founded upon truth. It not only stood, but has flowed steadily on for centuries. It is still going on today in His churches.

If you do not attend church services why not go this coming Sunday, and identify yourself with this steady flow of the best for which life stands?

There is always room in the river for one more drop of water. There is always room in the Church for one more worshipper

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

PATHS through the drifts had now been made connecting every house and store. They took Pace on a roundabout course but he finally came to the Rikes house.

He knocked impatiently. The door jerked angrily open and Tex glared at him. Darrow's scowl vanished and the mean eyes widened.

"Pace!"

Tex stepped aside and Pace entered. Tex led the way down the hall and up the stairs with the jaunty air of a proprietor. Pace followed, studying the assured back just ahead of him and feeling more certain than ever that he had full control of the situation. Tex called ahead.

"We got company, Ava. Pace Odium."

She stared owlishly at Pace, her once magnificent eyes dulled and bleary. Her face was sagged and yet she still had a great animal magnetism showing in the full lips that pouted slightly.

"Don't I know him?" she asked, lifting a languid finger toward Pace. Tex dropped his arm familiarly about her shoulder.

"Sure, sure, Honey. He's my friend."

"Then you're welcome, mister. Tex'n me like friends . . . lots of 'em." She leaned toward Pace and her voice dropped to a confidential whisper. "Me'n Tex gonna leave this place. Never liked it, mister, no part of it."

"Sure," Pace smiled.

"Poor Tommy," she said and hiccupped. "Was gonna leave him but he got killed. Didn't treat him right and he loved me. Makes me feel sad, and I don't like feeling sad."

Pace caught Tex's eye again and jerked his head toward the door. Tex nodded to Pace and led the way out of the room and downstairs. They entered the tiny parlor.

Tex looked questioningly at him. "Something up?"

"No," Pace said. He sat down on a horsehair sofa, thumbed his hat back. "It's about Jack."

Tex stiffened and some of the humor left his thin face. "What about him?"

"Well," Pace hesitated deliberately. "I don't like the way Jack's handling things."

Tex stared, disbelievingly, and then a new and hopeful light came in his face.

"Let me hear that again."

"It's plain, Tex. I dunno, seems like Jack's slipping. Look at the way he lets Shorty Ratner hold us up. He waits around too long and all of us will be looking at a jail with a hangnouse just beyond. That don't figure. Take this offer of Starratt to take care of Crane. Five hundred ain't much, but it's an easy job. It'd be just that much more to add to the kitty."

DAN tried to hold his elation in check. His face remained masklike and only by a single, sharp glance did he betray his inner excitement. Here was a gift extended to him but he must not too eagerly grasp it. Hiatt was held now by emotion and he might change his mind once this moment had passed.

"I don't know, Hiatt. You're outlaw, sure, but there might be some way to get rid of the brand."

Hiatt came to the edge of his chair, tipping forward onto the table. "How? That's all I want to know. Think I like this sneaking, running life? Think any woman would want to share it with me?"

Dan spoke cautiously. "You're not wanted for any killing in this Territory. But there is the bank robbery and the stolen money."

"But that was done in Colorado."

"The money's right here," Dan pointed out. "Maybe that could be returned . . . but there's still Tommy Rikes' killing. You didn't fire the shot, but the law can still hold you for it . . . unless you . . ."

"Unless what?"

"You're one of them. The only way we can trust you is to see what you do about it. If you helped us capture that bunch, and then turned the bank money over to . . ."

"Say Phil Preston, to see it went back to Colorado, I think the law would be mighty lenient with you."

"Turn them in?" Hiatt's tone changed, uncertain now.

"How else can we trust you? . . . or Ernie? After it's over, there's several ranches that could use a rider. I know Hal Crane would on his HC spread. That trumped-up killing charge back home would mean nothing and, given time, you might even get it cleared up."

"I don't know."

"You got your choice, Hiatt. You can ride along with this bunch, and you know where that trail will end. You won't have a chance, not only with Ernie, but any girl like her—ever. Throw in with us and I can promise that everyone in the whole Valley will back you to the hilt."

....

HIATT rose, stood thoughtful, then turned to the door and, without a word, left the house. Dan remained at the table. He knew Hiatt hated even the thought of betrayal, of being a turncoat.

So Dan walked to the saloon. The outlaws were gathered, as usual, at the bar. Dan's eyes quickly passed over them. Bruhn sat at the table with his inevitable card layout, whisky bottle and glass. The rest were at the bar with the exception of Hiatt, Pace and Tex.

Not five minutes later Pace came in. He selected a bottle from the shelf and took it to a table across the room from Bruhn.

E. St. Louis School Board Accused Of 'Gestapo Methods'

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., Nov. 26.—The AFL teachers union has charged the East St. Louis school board with using "gestapo methods" in their efforts to check on teachers reporting ill.

Mrs. Elizabeth Crane, president of the union's Local 1220, said in a statement Thursday that the entire teacher corps should not be stigmatized for the abuse of the 10-day annual sick leave privilege by a few.

The board announced earlier this week that it had hired a detective agency to check on teachers reporting ill because a few of the teachers had abused the privilege.

The detectives also were hired to protect school buildings from an increasing amount of vandalism.

Mrs. Crane, who said her union represents about 200 of the 590 East St. Louis teachers, said:

"The teaching profession will need many new teachers in years to come — better teachers who can cope with crowded schedules and bad publicity. Any respect teachers lose in the eyes of our children will cost far more than the and trying social trends. Promising young people should not be dissuaded by Gestapo meth-

ENGINEERING ADVANCES... WHERE LINCOLN WIDENS ITS LEAD NEW 285 HP LINCOLN ENGINE

... with high-torque power that works for your extra safety in every speed range

As you read this, we ask you to keep this one point in mind: everything we say about our engine can be proved. If we use words like "new" or "best," we are stating facts, not opinions.

So we'll start right off by telling you that the 1956 Lincoln Engine is entirely new. It differs importantly from any other V-type engine under the hood of any other large car. And, in terms of the ratings you are probably most familiar with, this new Lincoln Engine has 285 horsepower, and a new high-efficiency 9.00 to 1 compression ratio.

There's another listing you'll see in the 1956 engine specifications, that is actually far more meaningful for you.

What it says is: Torque—401 ft. pounds at 2,800 rpm.

What it means is that Lincoln power is usable, practical, safety-minded. That you get its full benefit at the speeds you usually drive in. That at 5 miles per hour... 10 miles per hour... 30 miles per hour—as well as at the legal limits—power works to give more responsive performance.

Our new 4-barrel carburetor design—improved successor to the first fully automatic 4-barrel carburetor pioneered by Lincoln—carries out this same realistic philosophy. The two reserve barrels are called into action solely by the demands of the engine rather than by the accelerator. You get the happy result in instantaneous acceleration: reflexes at every speed—and better gas mileage at low speeds.

This year, too, we're introducing the temperature-controlled air induction system. This feature lets only pre-warmed air into the carburetor when the engine is cold, and only cool outside air when the engine is warm. Result: faster warmups and no carburetor icing in cold weather... higher breathing efficiency in any weather. This is another Lincoln engineering first—an important one.

And there are many more engineering refinements in this new Lincoln Engine—far too many, in fact, to include here. But the essential difference—the difference you can feel, and appreciate when you drive the new Lincoln—is that Lincoln power is more than "paper" horsepower. It is everyday power, every speed power performing all the time for your safety.

Yes, and for your pleasure, too.

WHEN BOULMETIS WAS UNKNOWN

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (P)—Sammy Boulmetis, one of the leading jockeys in the east, was an unknown apprentice in the spring of 1949. The son of an emigrant Greek tailor in Baltimore was so obscure that his horse in the first race and the winner of the second race paid a $3,015.40 daily double at Monmouth Park. Now 27, Sam led the Monmouth riders that year and repeated twice since.

SPORT BRIEFS

Connie Ryan, former National League second baseman, will manage Austin in the Texas League in 1956. Austin replaces Beaumont.

Outfielder Arnie Hailigen, who hit .348 for Boise in the Pioneer League, will get a chance with the Milwaukee Braves in spring training.

Ralph (Tiger) Jones, who gained the fistic spotlight by beating Ray Robinson last January, is the son of an interior decorator.

Hazel Kirsch of El Paso, Tex., missed a perfect game when she went for her 12th consecutive strike. She got eight pins on the last ball for a 298 score.

Henry Kennedy and Selwyn Jones finished one-two in the Michigan AAU cross-country championships in 1955. They are Michigan State's standouts.

Karl Spooner, Dodger southpaw pitcher, is living in Hollis, N.Y., and selling automobiles in Brooklyn.

Hugh Pitts, Texas Christian center and co-captain, will compete in the Hula Bowl game in Honolulu early in January.

The Chicago White Sox will have three shortstops in training next spring—Jim Briedewer, Luis Aparicio who hit .268 for Memphis and Carl Peterson who batted .310 for San Diego.

Bob Caldwell of Walton, Ky., and Tom Forrestal of Cleveland are the two youngest members of the Navy football team. Both are 18.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Philadelphia's huge Municipal Stadium and the 36th Army-Navy game is the focal point for the eyes of the entire football world—with the exception of a dozen or so scouts and the thousands of fans who are primarily interested in such teams as Oklahoma, Notre Dame, Texas Christian, Mississippi, Auburn etc.

The scouts, notably a quartet from Pittsburgh who have been assigned to cover Pitt's potential Sugar Bowl rivals, have a professional interest in teams that may appear in the bowl games Jan. 2. With top-ranked Oklahoma closing out the season against its cross-state rival, Oklahoma A and M, Notre Dame encountering an old and respected cross-country enemy, Southern California, TCU trying for a clear-cut Southwest Conference championship, honors against Southern Methodist and four Southeastern Conference teams shooting for bowl bids, there's more than local interest in their doings Saturday.

For the ordinary follower of football, however, the Army-Navy game is the one, its backed by years of tradition and packed with the color provided by the marching band and the Midshipmen, the Army and Navy "brass" and the attendance of high-ranking dignitaries. All this will be shown nationally on TV (NBC).

Navy, beaten only by Notre Dame, is a one-touchdown favorite. If the Midshipmen win, they are again expected to accept a bowl invitation.

Probably this bid will come from the Cotton Bowl, which already has designated TCU as its host team.

A mild flu attack affected five of the Oklahoma players on the eve of the game, but isn't expected to keep the Sooners from winning their 29th straight victory.

Oklahoma, No. 1 in The Associated Press ranking poll, is slated to meet Maryland No. 3, in the Orange Bowl Jan. 2. Michigan State and UCLA, rated second and fourth, will play in the Rose Bowl.

If Navy doesn't go to the Cotton Bowl, TCU's opponent likely will be one of four Southeastern teams—Mississippi, Auburn, Georgia Tech and Vanderbilt—which also are under consideration as Pitt's Sugar Bowl opposition.

All four end their seasons Saturday. Mississippi against Mississippi State, Auburn against Alabama, Tech against Georgia and Vanderbilt against Tennessee. Although the SEC race is close, a Mississippi victory will clinch the title.

Other major games Saturday include Boston College-Holy Cross, Baylor-Rice, Tulane-Louisiana State, Florida-Miami (Fla.), Colorado-Colorado A. and M., and Arizona-Arizona State.

Lause Wins 30th Straight Bout By Beating Fullmer

NEW YORK (P)—Eduardo Lause, a fierce fighting man from Argentina with a knockout threat in every punch, won his 30th straight bout Friday night on a unanimous decision over Gene Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah in a 10-round battle at Madison Square Garden. Lause weighed 159½, Fullmer 156½.

Although the scowling left-hander from Buenos Aires was sliced around the right eye in the fifth round, and shaken by Fullmer's right hand in the third, he raked the 23-year-old American down the stretch.

Lause dropped the "Cyclone" from Utah in the eighth round with a solid left hook and the knockdown counter got as high as "four" before Referee Mark Conn ruled it was no knockdown. It appeared to be a clean knockdown to most of the crowd of about 4,000 who paid approximately $11,000 to see the nationally televised match.

Referee Conn and Judge Joe Agnello each scored it 7-3 and Judge Bert Grant saw it 6-3-1, all for Lause. The AP card also was 7-3 for the South American.

WEST VIRGINIA WINS OVER NORTH CAROLINA STATE 27-7

RALEIGH, N. C. (P)—Halfback Joe Marconia ripped off touchdown runs of 15 and 49 yards in the fourth quarter to lead West Virginia's Mountaineers to a 27-7 win over N. C. State Friday night before a rain-soaked crowd of 4,000.

The game, replete with fumbles because of the steady rain, saw West Virginia wind up its season with a 8-2 record. In spite of the loss, State closed out its most successful season since 1950 with a 4-5-1 record.

TWO ILLINOIS BOYS LOSE IN JR. TENNIS TOURNEY

ST. LOUIS (P)—Two Illinois entries, one from Decatur and the other from Pekin, lost their matches in Friday's third round of the National Boys and Junior Indoor Tennis Tournament.

In the junior singles division, Donald Graver of Decatur was defeated by Ronald Holmberg of Brooklyn, N. Y., 6-1, 6-1. Joe Epkins of Pekin also was eliminated by Maxwell Brown Jr., Louisville, Ky., 6-0, 6-3.

Two Soldiers Die In Continued Cyprus Violence

NICOSIA, CYPRUS (P)—Two British soldiers were killed Thursday as violence continued against British control of this island crown colony. Three other soldiers were wounded.

One private was killed when rebels opened fire on two army vehicles near the Village of Khandria. An officer and another soldier were wounded.

A sergeant was shot and killed in Nicosia while walking along a road. A homemade grenade thrown at a British jeep in Nicosia slightly wounded another soldier.

British authorities published a new law providing for a maximum of two years imprisonment and a fine of 100 pounds ($280) for carrying offensive weapons, including stones.

Rebels on the island are demanding that Cyprus be united with Greece.

RANGOON, Burma (P)—Rangoon is getting a spring cleaning for the seven-day visit next week of Soviet Premier Bulganin and Communist Party Secretary Nikita Khrushchev.

HOWE OF RED WINGS LOSES 2 TEETH IN THURSDAY GAME

DETROIT (P)—Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings had two teeth jarred loose in Thursday night's rough game against the Montreal Canadiens, but still managed to make a joke of it.

As he headed for Detroit Osteopathic Hospital, Howe said: "I've got to make the 'doc' save 'em. I've got to keep something I'm even losing my hair."

COUP DE GRACE AT COLE D'ALENE

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho (P)—Ralph Reinhold of New York kept cool when a fish made off with his line. Reinhold took after the fish in his boat on Lake Coeur d'Alene, reached into the water, grabbed the broken end of his fishing line, tied it up and landed a 10-pound Kamloops trout.

Crosby Calls Off Movie Planned For Notre Dame Friday

HOLLYWOOD (P)—Bing Crosby Friday called off a special showing for the Notre Dame football team of the movie "Guys and Dolls" because of protests from Roman Catholics.

Crosby has made a practice of treating the team to a movie when it comes here each year to play Southern California.

Earlier this week the Roman Catholic bishops of the United States, meeting in Washington, criticized what they termed a growing moral laxity in films.

One of the pictures named in the report was "Guys and Dolls." The Samuel Goldwyn movie received the Catholic Legion of Decency rating of "objectionable in part" for a strip tease dance and skimpy costuming of the Goldwyn girls.

After the protests, Crosby arranged for the team to be the guests of Paramount Studio tonight for a special showing of "The Court Jester," an unreleased Danny Kaye comedy.

CZECH ICE SKATING CHAMPION FLEES TO U.S.

NEW YORK (P)—Miroslava Nachodská, Czechoslovakia's former woman's ice skating champion, arrived in the United States by air Friday with 70 other European refugees.

The 23-year-old skater fled to freedom last February in Vienna, where the Czechoslovak team was competing in international matches.

Before coming here, she appeared in an ice revue for U. S. troops in West Germany.

Miss Nachodská said she left Prague for Vienna on Lincoln's Birthday and that her flight to freedom took place on Washington's Birthday.

GOLFERS IN ENGLAND GO GOLFING WITH RIFLES

MANCHESTER, England (P)—Golfers stalked around the Sandbach course Friday with rifle stocks peeping from their club bags.

It's a crow patrol. For the past year so many golf balls have had a way of dribbling over a ridge at Sandbach and then vanishing that an inquiry was made.

Answer: Willy crows were carrying off the balls.

Now a few rifle shots scare the crows for a while.

A groundskeeper has a theory that the crows think the balls are eggs and that a silly bird somewhere is hoarding about 800 missing balls for hatching next spring.

Founder Of Little League, Carl Stotz, Relieved Of Duties

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (P)—Carl E. Stotz, dismissed as commissioner of Little League Baseball, Inc., said Friday he was no longer connected with the corporation directing the small boy baseball organization.

Stotz, who founded the organization in 1939, made the statement in reply to one by President Peter J. McGovern which said that Stotz, while dismissed as commissioner, "is still an employee and member of the board of directors."

McGovern relieved Stotz of his duties as commissioner Tuesday after Stotz filed a foreign attachment in Lycoming County Court which, he said, was preliminary to a $300,000 suit for breach of contract. The suit has yet to be filed.

In San Bernardino, Calif., Perry Winstead announced Friday he has resigned as a sectional director of Little League and said three district directors in Southern California have quit with him.

Winstead said Stotz is setting up his own program under the name of the Original Little League and has called a meeting in Pittsburgh for Dec. 10-11 to outline its future.

Irish Visit USC Sat.; Game Will Be 27th In A Series

LOS ANGELES (P)—Notre Dame winds up a good football season and Southern California a poor one Saturday as the two meet in one of the oldest intersectional series in the nation.

The Irish, beaten only by Michigan State and rated a one-touchdown favorite, but coach Terry Brennan said, "I think it is anyone's ball game." USC has lost four straight.

The game will be the 27th between the two in a series started by Knute Rockne of the Irish and Howard Jones of the Trojans in 1926. Notre Dame holds a 17-7-2 margin.

A crowd of around 90,000 is expected to see the closing game of the college season here in Memorial Coliseum. The kickoff is set 4 p.m. (CST).

The game will be broadcast on radio (MBS). There will be no television.

OFFICIALS AND COACHES HOLD RULE MEETING SATURDAY

CHICAGO (P)—Basketball officials and coaches of the Big Ten will hold their annual pre-season rules interpretation meeting Saturday and Sunday.

BEGIN INVESTIGATION OF THREATENING LETTERS

CHELSEA, Mass. (P)—Police began an investigation Friday after Headmaster J. William Kennedy disclosed that several Chelsea High School football players received threatening letters before their traditional Thanksgiving Day game with Everett.

Chelsea High, apparently headed for the state class A championship, was walloped 21-0.

Kennedy said the letters were typewritten and unsigned. Mothers of boys on the team telephoned him with complaints, he added.

Navy Picked To Win By 1 Touchdown When They Meet Army Sat.

By WILL GRIMSLEY
PHILADELPHIA (P)—Air-minded Navy remained a firm touchdown favorite over ground-conscious Army despite the forecast that their 56th annual football battle Saturday may be played in cold rain, snow and tricky winds.

The Weather Bureau predicted Friday that a rain and snowstorm would strike the city Friday night and continue throughout Saturday morning. There is a chance for clearing in the afternoon.

Both Navy and Army hoped so. The rival camps left no doubt that they preferred dry footing for this grandest of football spectacles. Army holds a 28-23 edge in the series. There have been four ties.

Damp conditions would hamper Navy's brilliant passing attack, statistically the nation's best, and at the same time would cut into the efficiency of the Army offensive, built on backfield speed and quickness in the line.

Vast Municipal Stadium, where a sellout crowd of 102,000 will gather, is being carefully protected by tarpaulins. Only rain or snow at game time could produce a wet field.

Kickoff is at 12:30 p.m. CST. The game will be televised nationally by NBC.

Both squads arrived in the city shortly after noon and whisked through brief warmup sessions at the stadium.

President Eisenhower, recovering from a heart attack, will not attend the game but other government officials, cabinet members, congressmen and generals and admirals by the dozens, are on hand.

Also present are two representatives of the Cotton Bowl in Dallas, openly declaring their interest in landing Navy. A Sugar Bowl victory last January, as a foe for Texas Christian Jan. 2.

The bid will be forthcoming if Navy wins. All indications are that Navy, on the theory that bowl appearances promote naval enlistments, may accept.

Navy, beaten only by Notre Dame and tied by Duke, has a superior record over Army, which has won five and lost three.

Army, upset 27-20 a year ago and smarting under three other losses to Navy Coach Eddie Erdelatz, has the revenge motive.

Army hopes soared with the announcement that speedy halfback Bob Kyasky, who suffered an early season knee injury would start in the backfield along with quarterback Don Hollender, a converted end; halfback Don Lash and fullback Pat Uebel, who has played his greatest games against Navy.

A change in the Navy backfield put Paul Gohert at right half in place of Ceb Burchett, who is still limping from an injury suffered against Duke Nov. 5.

Completing the Midshipmen's backfield are George Welsh, whose passing arm has been Navy's chief weapon, Ed Oldham and Dick Guest.

TOKYO BLAMES TV FOR SERIOUS INJURIES TO BOYS

TOKYO (Saturday) (P)—Television wrestling matches are getting the blame for a wave of serious and even fatal injuries to Japanese boys. The broadcasting stations themselves plan to do something about it.

Western style pro roughhouse wrestling has become popular in Japan. Throngs of youngsters crowd around public street corner TV sets to watch the matches. Then the boys try the pro tactics—and get hurt.

To warn the boys against the dangers involved in imitating their mat idols, Japanese telecasters plan to bring Rikidozan, popular Japanese wrestler, to the screen. He will urge the kids to leave pro-style wrestling to the pros.

Babe Zaharias To Re-Enter Hospital On Doctor's Advice

TAMPA, Fla. (P)—Babe Zaharias said Friday she will re-enter a Galveston, Tex., hospital over the weekend for another cancer check-up.

"My hip got to hurting real bad, so I had some X-rays taken and they (doctors) didn't like the way they looked," the Babe explained.

The great golfer, top woman athlete of the past half century, came to the telephone to talk briefly about her return to the John Sealy Hospital at Galveston. She had been released there Sept. 14 after treatment for her second cancer attack.

Mrs. Zaharias said the situation is not clear, but that after hearing a report of the X-rays here, her Galveston specialist, Dr. Robert M. Moore, instructed her to be ready to return to the hospital Sunday.

The Babe, who seemed to be improving slowly but steadily while resting at her Tampa home, said "I guess I'll need some more treatment, but they will be able to stop the pain anyway."

Mrs. Zaharias will fly to Houston Saturday afternoon and enter the Galveston hospital that night or Sunday.

Braves In American Assn. Want Miami As New Home In '56

MILWAUKEE (P)—The Milwaukee Braves' homeless American Assn. farm club—homeless since the Braves bid goodbye to Toledo after the last season—will open the 1956 baseball season in Miami, if the rest of the league approves.

"It's all up to the association directors now," Executive Vice President Joseph Cairnes of the Braves said Friday. "And I have high hopes that they will agree to our proposal."

The directors will meet at Columbus Sunday.

In Louisville, AA President Ed Doherty declined to speculate on the possibilities of the move other than to say he expects a lot of discussion on it at the meeting.

Cairnes, busy all fall trying to find a new abode for the triple A Toledo franchise, scouted Miami for a week recently after a hot campaign to acquire a San Francisco base from the Pacific Coast League cooled off.

And the shift to Miami instead means, Cairnes said, that there's a good chance the Sox will stay in the American Assn., rather than trying to transfer into the International League, and putting the Sox into Miami will stretch the Association over a big chunk of Geography—it's 1,726 air miles from Miami to Denver.

However, Cairnes said, with fast air transport available, that "won't be enough to make any difference."

At Toledo last season, the Sox finished seventh.

Franklin Downs St. James 54-42

Kefauver Hints Conspiracy Hidden In Power Contract

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Kefauver said Friday a "criminal conspiracy involving a number of high-ranking persons" may be hidden in the wreckage of the Eisenhower administration's Dixon-Yates contract. He added that his Senate Antimonopoly subcommittee intends to hunt for it.

"The AEC's decision—which amounts to a declaration that the contract reeks with fraud—is on the civil side," Kefauver said in a statement.

"But there is most certainly a criminal side to this case also, and I believe that before we are through we may find a case of criminal conspiracy involving a number of high-ranking persons."

"We shall endeavor to do our duty and finish our job."
